Cochereau at St. Thomas Church Recorded in stereo at his last New York recital on November 9, 1970, this CD immortalizes a much heralded musical event and the organs upon which it was played: the 1956 Aeolian-Skinner/1977 Adams 4m of 118 stops in the chancel and the fabulous but rarely heard 1970 Adams 4m of 54 stops and 86 ranks (now for sale) in the West gallery. Cochereau plays Couperin in the gallery, then moves to the chancel for the rest of the program, including Cochereau's magnificent improvisation for which William Self introduces the sections on the gallery organ. CD only, AUGCL9001, $14.98

MENDELSSOHN: Sonata II; BACH: Toccata & Fugue in d-minor

The Sauer Organ at the vast Berlin Cathedral, the largest organ in Europe when it was built in 1905 with 113 ranks, remained exposed to the elements from 1944 to 1953, when a hole bombed through the dome was finally closed. Despite vandalism and some decades of silence, the instrument has been successfully restored to its original specification and mechanism of cone-valve chests, providing the means to explore "almost forgotten tone colors," in the words of cathedral organist Michael Pohl, who provides fine performances to demonstrate the organ. CD only, CD 11781, $14.98
